A total immersion in the daily life of oyster farmers in the bay of the Mont St Michel

14h00: Depart by coach from the Palais du Grand Large.

Discover a know-how, a profession OYSTER FARMING: A LIVING HERITAGE

Joseph Pichot was in charge of the family oyster farm "Les Parcs St. Kerber" in 1968 and had the idea of upgrading the oyster heritage. So in 1989 the Marine Farm opened its doors to the public. The aim was to familiarise visitors with the specifics of the oyster farming profession.

Situated in a magnificent and preserved environment, our site offers a breathtaking view of the port of Cancale and its bay. The influence of the tides on the landscape is undeniable. At high tide, the sound of the waves will accompany your visit. At low tide, you can admire our oyster beds.

The breeding of this valuable mollusk is hard work. Many manipulations are necessary for the growth of the Cancalaise pearl.

No wonder that this oysters have been included in the list of intangible cultural heritage of France by UNESCO since November 2019.

During this tour you will be invited to discover the oyster farm of Parcs St Kerber in a splendid setting. A one-hour guided tour takes you to the heart of the company.

The history and breeding of this delicious mollusk will have no more secrets for you !

A short documentary will present the hard work of our oyster farmers in the oyster beds. You will explore the sorting and packing workshops.

The tour ends with a moment of conviviality with an oyster tasting with a glass of white wine.

16h30: Depart and return to St Malo.

Price: 55€ pp (based on a group of 20 people, VAT not applicable special regime for travel agencies)
